The results of the follow-up in 18 children with neuroblastoma and the average of five years after the diagnosis are reported. The mean age was 3 years and 9 months. The children were treated according to the interdisciplinary program. Four patients died of progressive disease (overall survival rate: 27%). The average duration of the disease was more than 4 years in 12 patients. The median follow-up time was 4 years and 2 months. The median survival time was 3 years and 8 months (91% of the survivors). The factors prognostically significant for the survival time of these patients were: age younger than 6 months, living in the rural area, more than 4 complications before surgery, and progressive disease at the diagnosis. In more than half of the children, the tumor was localized after the surgery. Chemotherapy, with and without autologous stem-cell transplantation was introduced in all children from the first year of the treatment. 21, no. 2 (Winter 1988): 13-17. Rüegg, Stefanie.
